CHARITY SERMON IN AID OF THE

CHRISTIAN BROTHERS.

Rev P O'Counell, S J, in the parish church day on the subject of education which was one of the most important subjects that could engage their attention, as it regarded, not only the present life, but the happiness or misory of the life to come. Education imposed on parents their weightiest obligation, and with it was closely interwoven the sacred rights of the Church and of civil society. When a child was born into this world it was under the primeval curse of original sin and the gates of Heaven were closed against it.

But that curse was revoked by baptism, heir to the Kingdom of Heaven. When, after baptism, the child was handed to its parents they were to look on it as a sacred deposit entrusted to them by God to bring up for Heaven and expanded, and the germs of supernatural virtue developed, so that the child might go the battle of life. It was a matter that affected most intimately the welfare of the young for time and eternity, and the children of both sexes from their earliest years should undergo preparation for this life-long struggle.

To train up the young in that way and to guide their youthful steps in the way of God's commandments and to lay the foundation of virtue was the great work of Christian education.

To educate was to draw out the faculties of the child and to strengthen and beautify them-to develop and strengthen the powers of the mind.

and to direct and chasten the feelings and affections of the heart. No system of education was safe that did not spring from, and which was not sanctified by the influence of religion. The atmosphere in which the children were educated ought to be laden with religious perfames, and they should be inspired by example and by pictures, statues, pious emblems, and all things relating to the wor-
